Enjoy your Retirement!

Chester Park is a safe, secure 55+ Adult Community. Our Member-Owners enjoy all the benefits of home ownership with none of the hassles. DON’T WAIT! UNITS SELL QUICKLY!

Safe, Secure Senior Living
For more information or a tour please call:
907-333-8844
www.chesterparkcoop.com
Online shopping poses biggest risks to consumers

Here’s how you can protect yourself

By ROSEANN FREITAS
Better Business Bureau

Online shopping has certainly made it easier to purchase products and services. But for many, that convenience has come with consequences.

The most recent BBB Scam Tracker Risk Report revealed that, for a third consecutive year, online purchases were the riskiest scam encountered by consumers. Nearly 75% of those targeted being scammed were by an online scam ultimately lost money.

Products most frequently used to deceive victims included pets/pet supplies, digital devices, and motor vehicles.

With online shopping here to stay, showing caution and performing research before you buy is increasingly important. Better Business Bureau recommends these tips for shopping smarter and safer online:

Confir m the business is legitimate
A professional-looking website isn’t an indication of a company’s legitimacy. Con artists often mimic real companies’ websites to fool consumers into making a payment or providing their personal information. Before shopping, search for the company on BBB.org to verify licensing requirements as well as to read complaints and reviews left by previous customers. Then confirm you are on the correct website by searching for the business via the web browser and double-checking the URL.

Think before you click
Clicking a link is easy but it might take you to a questionable website. Be cautious when an email or an online ad has a link to take advantage of the great deals. The link can direct you to an impersonated site and download malware directly onto your device. Both cons can lead to identity theft.

Too good to be true
Offers of free items are enticing. However, check for hidden costs or any monthly recurring fees. Also, when the supply of an item is low, the price is higher. Don’t get fooled by a great deal on a hard-to-find item.

Keep your receipts
Save a copy of all correspondence with the company until you receive and are satisfied with the product. According to the FTC, when shopping online, sellers are to ship your order within the time stated in their ads or within 30 days if no timeline is expressed. If the item doesn’t arrive in the allotted time, then the seller must notify the consumer and then give them the option to cancel with a refund.

Shop with a credit card
Credit cards provide additional protection, and it is easier to dispute charges you didn’t approve or get your money back. Debit, prepaid or gift cards don’t offer the same protections.

Keep your receipts
Save a copy of all correspondence with the company until you receive and are satisfied with the product. According to the FTC, when shopping online, sellers are to ship your order within the time stated in their ads or within 30 days if no timeline is expressed. If the item doesn’t arrive in the allotted time, then the seller must notify the consumer and then give them the option to cancel with a refund.

Read the fine print
Read the fine print before submitting your order, especially the return policy. Check if the company accepts returns and if there is a restocking fee.

The directory will also be available online as a PDF, with a search function and hotlinked listings.

For more information, call 907-276-1059 Option 1 or toll-free statewide, 1-800-478-1059 Option 1. Or email admin@opagak.com.

OLDER PERSONS ACTION GROUP

Mission statement:
“To work statewide to improve the quality of life for all Alaskans through education, advocacy and collaboration.”

Vision statement:
“Promote choice and well being for seniors through legacy and leadership.”

Senior Voice Staff
Retiree benefits for Alaska veterans and their families

By LAWRENCE D. WEISS
For Senior Voice

There is a vast array of benefits for retired veterans and their families, but “you don’t know what you don’t know.” Not to worry, we will point you in the right direction. I recently interviewed three Alaskan experts on the topic and here’s a sample of what they had to say.

First up, Verdie Bowen, Director of the Alaskan Office of Veterans Affairs: “I’m probably the only director in the nation that actually will take and file a claim. I’m Alaskan and I’m from the bush. When you go into a community, you’re the only expert there.

“We are here to serve you – veterans, dependents, survivors and those transitioning from military service. We offer assistance in determining eligibility, connecting you with the services you need, filling out paperwork, and ensuring you receive every benefit you have earned.

“All across the state of Alaska, the number one reason veterans do not file benefits is because they believe they’re saving it for someone else, because they don’t need it. That’s not a good excuse. If they don’t receive the benefit which they have earned, then those funds and those benefits go somewhere else.

“The three top issues the veterans reach out to us for really depends on age, but mostly the number one is disability compensation. This is from injuries incurred in the military service. And the number two is health care... Number three

AARP focuses on legislative priorities

By MARGE STONEKING
AARP Alaska

On behalf of our more than 75,000 members, AARP Alaska is working to pass legislation in the current state legislative session that empowers all Alaskans to choose how they live as they age, and the vast majority of us want to age at home in our Alaskan communities. Alaska has the fastest growing senior population in the nation for the tenth year in a row. As the senior percentage of our population grows, more workers retire and the available workforce shrinks. We’ve seen this trend accelerate in the last few years, when many older Alaskans retired early to keep themselves safe from COVID.

“We’ve focused our 2023 legislative priorities on workforce solutions to stabilize the flagging workforce in the healthcare field and public sector that is threatening older Alaskans’ access to care and benefits. None of our priorities offer a silver bullet solution, but they can all help to diminish barriers to healthcare and state services that are impacting seniors. We are also partnering with other organizations to promote these workforce solutions, which amplifies the impact of our advocacy and increases the chance of successful passage.

The Nurse Licensure Compact

This year, we have collaborated with Alaska Hospital and Healthcare Association, Mat-Su Health Foundation, U.S. Dept. of Defense, Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium, Alaska Board of Nursing, UAA School of Nursing, and more than 70 other health care partners to advocate for Alaska to join the Nurse Licensure Compact (NLC). The NLC creates Registered
What is an ADU? Why do we need them?

AARP Alaska

An Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU) is a self-contained, compact residence with all the basic necessities for day to day living that is on the same property as a single-family home. ADUs come in many forms: backyard cottages, above-garage suites or apartments attached to the main house. Essentially, they are modest but complete living spaces paired with a primary house on the same lot. ADUs typically have a kitchen, bedroom, bathroom and a separate entrance.

ADUs can be a way for older residents to age in place and maintain the social connections that are critical for healthy aging. They can also be a way for younger people just starting out to live in residential neighborhoods where single-family homes exceed their budgets. ADUs can also be beneficial in that they can provide additional income for homeowners, be a place where family or friends can stay while visiting, and they increase property values. As individuals age, ADUs can be a way for them to remain in their neighborhood by building an accessible ADU on the same property to live in when they have limited mobility.

Building housing in existing neighborhoods is critical for Anchorage. Record-high housing costs and low availability are straining even middle-class budgets. For decades, Anchorage land-use policy has favored the single-family residential home, which is the most resource-intensive and expensive form of housing. These policies have crowded out more affordable housing options which has resulted a lack of housing options. In 2021, single-family home sale prices averaged a record-high of $424,252. Individuals who rent often have lower incomes than homeowners, thus they are more impacted by this housing crisis. In Anchorage, median rent went up more than 14% from 2016 to 2022, according to the Alaska Housing Finance Corporation.

Anchorage’s housing affordability gap is critical for Anchorage as a whole. These policies have crowded out more affordable housing options which has resulted a lack of housing options. In 2021, single-family home sale prices averaged a record-high of $424,252. Individuals who rent often have lower incomes than homeowners, thus they are more impacted by this housing crisis. In Anchorage, median rent went up more than 14% from 2016 to 2022, according to the Alaska Housing Finance Corporation.

Perspectives

Celebrating 20 years of Assisted Living!

PROVIDING YOUR LOVED ONE WITH PRIVACY, DIGNITY, AND INDIVIDUALIZED CARE

- 48 apartment community w/ private, fully accessible bathrooms
- 14 apartments on a secured floor dedicated to Memory Care and Special Needs
- RNs on staff during business hours and on-call 24/7 to triage resident/staff concerns
- New state of the art call system w/ customizable features
- Activities Coordinator w/ on and off-site recreational opportunities
- Restaurant-style dining room professionally ran by NANA
- Wi-Fi in common area, Basic Cable, and all Utilities Included
- Person-centered care-planning provided by Administrator/RN with 20 years at the community

www.marlowmanor.com 907-338-8708

Fixing the housing crisis will require policies that allow for a wider variety of housing options in all income levels and planning for future housing needs. Older Alaskans want to remain in their homes and neighborhoods but need more accessible and affordable housing. Nearly 70% of Alaska residents age 45 and older currently live in Alaska full-time. An AARP poll from 2020 showed 74% want to stay in their home and another 63% need affordable housing options. In 2021, the Anchorage Economic Development Corporation surveyed seniors and found that 75% want a home under 2,000 square feet. ADUs could be one way to allow seniors to stay in Alaska, continuing to contribute to the community in disposable income, volunteer time and long-time Alaska knowledge.

Senior Voice
A caregiver is a person in charge of providing specific and often specialized care to older adults and people with chronic diseases. In other words, they are committed to accompanying and improving the quality of life of the person they care for. Caregivers fulfill the task of facilitating and providing care for the basic and instrumental activities of daily living that an older person cannot perform or in which they require some type of support, due to physical or mental disability.

Taking on the commitment of caring for a loved one brings many satisfactions and is fulfilling because of the affection one has for the cared-for person. However, being a full-time caregiver has daily physical, mental, and organizational demands, which can conflict with the caregiver's own personal life. The Red Cross has detailed 12 rights of caregivers on which it is important to reflect and which are valid for any person who provides care to a dependent family member or friend.

Caregivers are entitled to:
1. To be recognized as valuable members of society. The selfless contribution of these people has a social and personal value that is often invisible and unknown, measured by the hours of devotion or personal projects that have been postponed or abandoned. It is a commitment mostly made by women in the family context, who take care or took care of their children and now also take care of their parents, their partner or another family member or friend.
2. To their own self-care. It is very important that caregivers value and learn to take care of themselves, following the advice of experts. Their own wellbeing, as well as the wellbeing of the person they care for, will depend to a significant extent on self-care.
3. To educate and train themselves in caregiving. When any disease develops in a family member, it is essential to understand what to do or how to act. Receiving training and specific information about the disease and understanding how other people deal with similar situations is a very helpful resource.
4. To receive information from professionals about available resources. Sometimes, caregivers are not able to benefit from resources because they are unaware of their existence or do not know how to access them.
5. To experience negative feelings about witnessing their ill loved one. Sometimes, caregivers may perceive some of their thoughts as unacceptable or experience negative emotions toward a sick person. To avoid negative consequences for the caregiver’s mental health, it is essential to understand that all feelings derived from such complex and disconcerting situations are valid and that it is essential to learn how to identify and manage them. This requires the support of the entire family and the acknowledgment that the entire burden of caregiving does not fall on one person.
6. To set limits to excessive demands. Feeling obligated to respond to all demands or assuming more responsibilities than one is capable of is often a precipitant of overload, or the so-called caregiver burnout.
7. To ask for help. Often, caregivers are reluctant to ask for help, something that may result from a lack of assertiveness or not being considered of their own needs. In other cases, caregivers do not know how to ask for help effectively, something that can be learned and will benefit their own well-being.
8. To dedicate time to themselves without feeling guilty. Caring for May and make your mental well-being a priority.

A health fair offers excellent self-care
May is Mental Health Awareness Month

By SHARON PHILLIPS
Alaska Health Fair, Inc.

May has arrived, and as we welcome the warmer weather and blooming flowers, let us also take a moment to recognize the importance of mental health. May is Mental Health Awareness Month, and Alaska Health Fair, Inc. is dedicated to raising awareness for mental well-being.

Mental health is a crucial aspect of our overall well-being, as it encompasses our emotional, psychological and social well-being. Our mental health influences how we think, feel and act, and plays a significant role in our ability to cope with stress, relate to others and make decisions. As we navigate through life, it is essential to prioritize our mental well-being, just as we would our physical health.

The Gratitude Exercise
One of the simplest yet most effective practices you can incorporate into your daily routine is a gratitude exercise. Practicing gratitude can have a profound impact on your mental health, helping to reduce stress, increase happiness and promote a more positive outlook on life.

This exercise can be done in a matter of minutes and can be easily incorporated into your daily routine, whether you’re still in bed, enjoying your morning coffee or taking a break at the office. Follow these steps to practice the gratitude exercise:
1. Find a comfortable position. Sit or lie down in a relaxed posture, allowing your body to feel at ease.
2. Close your eyes. Gently close your eyes and take a few deep breaths, inhaling through your nose and exhaling through your mouth.
3. Reflect on your blessings. Bring to mind three things that you are grateful for in your life. These can be big or small, and can range from personal accomplishments to relationships, or even the beauty of nature.
4. Visualize your gratitude. As you think of each blessing, visualize it in your mind’s eye and feel the warmth of gratitude in your heart.
5. Express thanks. Silently or out loud say “thank you” for each of these blessings, allowing the feeling of gratitude to fill your entire being.
6. Return to the present moment. Take a few more deep breaths and gently open your eyes, bringing your awareness back to your surroundings.

By practicing this gratitude exercise daily, you can cultivate a more positive mindset and experience the many benefits of gratitude on your mental health.

Medicare and making the most of your doctor visits
By SEAN MCPHLAMY
Alaska Medicare Information Office

Obtaining the best health care involves good communication between you and your doctor. Today I will help explain how you can build an effective relationship with your doctor and make the most of your visits.

Communicate well with your health care provider
Communication is very important when building relationships with your health care providers and getting the best possible care. To help you communicate with your providers, take the following steps:
Be prepared. Arrive at your doctor’s office prepared with your health insurance cards, a copy of your health history if you’re a new patient, and a list of questions you want to ask your doctor. Bring something to take notes on what your doctor tells you. To assist, consider bringing

Visiting a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Visit a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Medicare and making the most of your doctor visits

By SEAN MCPHLAMY
Alaska Medicare Information Office

Obtaining the best health care involves good communication between you and your doctor. Today I will help explain how you can build an effective relationship with your doctor and make the most of your visits.

Communicate well with your health care provider
Communication is very important when building relationships with your health care providers and getting the best possible care. To help you communicate with your providers, take the following steps:
Be prepared. Arrive at your doctor’s office prepared with your health insurance cards, a copy of your health history if you’re a new patient, and a list of questions you want to ask your doctor. Bring something to take notes on what your doctor tells you. To assist, consider bringing

Visiting a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Visit a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Visit a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Visit a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Visit a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Visit a health fair for affordable blood tests
Pre-scheduling an appointment online is preferred at www.alaskahealthfair.org or by calling one of our offices. Walk-ins are accepted at spring events as space and time permit.

May 9, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Fairbanks – Tuesday, 5/9/23, 8am-1pm – Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201
May 13, Anchorage – St. John Methodist Community Health Fair, 1800 O’Malley Rd., 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Buying over the counter hearing aids

By DONNA R. DeMARCO
Accurate Hearing Systems

Over the counter (OTC) hearing devices have a place but, they are not for everyone. Buyer beware.

1. Get tested. Getting your hearing test is important. You will find out if there is any blockage, such as wax, and it is helpful to know exactly what your hearing levels are. Getting your hearing test will tell us a lot, not just how well you hear. At Accurate Hearing, we give a free hearing test. Knowing your hearing results, you will be able to make a good decision on what product is best for you.

2. Know what you are buying. Make sure there is a good return policy. Check to see if it covers repairs, loss and damage, as well as whether you can get a loaner pair to use during repairs. Amplifiers are not FDA-regulated. Hearing aids are FDA-regulated.

3. Know the difference between OTC and prescription. OTC hearing aids will be an option to try for people that have difficulty hearing with normal to mild hearing loss, but for more severe hearing loss, prescription hearing aids are still the only option. People under the age of 18 will also need a prescription.

4. Get it in writing. Ask your doctor to write down what you should do between now and your next visit, including instructions for how to take medicines, specialists you should see, or lifestyle modifications.

5. Follow up. If you experience any issues after your appointment, call your doctor’s office to schedule a follow-up. Ask your doctor’s office if they use email or an online portal to communicate with patients.

Advance Beneficiary Notice

If your provider believes that Medicare will not pay for a service, they may ask you to sign an Advance Beneficiary Notice (ABN) before you receive that service. The ABN allows you to decide whether to get the care — and pay out of pocket for it — if Medicare denies payment. The notice must list the specific reason why the provider believes Medicare may deny payment. Providers are not required to give you an ABN for services or items that are never covered by Medicare, such as hearing aids or dental care. Medicare requires providers to only use ABNs on a case-by-case basis. Providers cannot have a blanket ABN policy where they provide an ABN for all services.

Medicare

Medicare covers second opinions if a doctor recommends that you have surgery or a major diagnostic or therapeutic procedure, such as something that would require general anesthetic. Medicare will cover a third opinion if the first and second opinions are different from each other.

Seek a second (or third) opinion if needed

A second opinion is when you ask a doctor other than your regular doctor for their view on your symptoms, injury or illness to better help you make an informed decision about treatment options. Medicare covers second opinions if a doctor recommends that you have surgery or a major diagnostic or therapeutic procedure, such as something that would require general anesthetic. Medicare will cover a third opinion if the first and second opinions are different from each other. The second and third opinions will be covered even if Medicare will not ultimately cover your procedure. Note that Medicare does not cover second and third opinions for excluded services, such as cosmetic surgery.

Billing errors sometimes happen

Doctors and their billing departments can make errors or honest mistakes when billing. You can spot these errors by reading your Medicare statements and comparing them to your own records. The Medicare Information Office offers “My Health Care Trackers” for this purpose. If something doesn’t seem right, call your provider. For example, you may see that your provider billed Medicare for an office visit on a day when you did not see them. Or, you may see that your provider billed you for a service that seems different than what you actually received. If they billed a medical error, they should correct it. If your provider does not fix the error, or if you notice a pattern or errors, contact our office. One of our certified counselors can help you identify Medicare fraud, errors or abuse, and help resolve your concern.

Here to help

For any Medicare related questions, please feel free to contact the State of Alas- ka Medicare Information Office at 800-478-6065 or 907-269-3680. Our office is also known as the State Health Insurance Assistance Program (SHIP), the Senior Medicare Patrol (SMP), and the Medicare Improvements for Patients and Providers Act (MIPPA) program. If you are part of an agency or organization that assists seniors with medical resources, consider networking with the Medicare Information Office. Call us to inquire about our new Ambassador program.

Sean McPhily is a vol- unteer and Certified Medi- care Counselor at the Alaska Medicare Information Office.

ADVERTISEMENT

Alaska law permits a hearing aid dispenser who is not a licensed physician or a licensed audiologist to fit hearing aids for the purpose of selling or leasing hearing aids; the tests given by a hearing aid dealer are not to be used to diagnose the cause of the hearing impairment.

Accurate Hearing Systems

BY DONNA R. DeMARCO

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program at APIA has partnered with several non-profits to meet community needs by encouraging and supporting volunteerism for people ages 55 years and older in the Anchorage and Mat-Su region. We are currently looking for elders to volunteer at the following sites (but not limited to): Alaska Regional Hospital, Alaska Veterans and Pioneer Home, Alaska Veterans Museum, Anchorage Loussac Library, Anchorage Senior Activity Center, Catholic Social Services, Downtown Hope Center, Mur Su Regional Medical Center, Prestige Care and Rehabilitation Center, Primrose Retirement Communities, Wasilla Area Seniors Inc.

If you are interested please contact:

Brienne Hunt
RSVP Coordinator
(907) 276-2700 ext. 276
Or directly (907) 222-4276
briennh@apia.org
www.apia.org

Alaska Fresh Weekly!

How it Works:
- 7 dinners delivered each week!
- Single-serving of entrée, starch, & veggies
- Fully cooked - just reheat
- Great savings at $159/week
- Fresh ingredients from Alaskan vendors

Advantages:
- Save time on cooking, cleaning
- Save money eating out
- Save stress & free up your time!
- “I love the convenience and the food is so good” - Lorraine

Call 907-677-6633 for information
AlaskaDinnerFactory.com

Mention this ad & receive 10% off your first order!
Wikipedia reveals that the modern Mother’s Day holiday was first celebrated in 1907. Anna Jarvis campaigned to make Mother’s Day a recognized holiday beginning in 1905, when her mother Ann Reeves Jarvis passed. Anna’s mother had been a peace activist and had cared for wounded soldiers on both sides of the American Civil War and had been urging for a “Mother’s Day for Peace”, asking that husbands and sons would no longer be killed in wars. Anna Jarvis had wanted to honor this and set aside a day to honor all mothers because she believed a mother is “the person who has done more for you than anyone in the world”. Although successful in founding the holiday, she became resentful of protests of Mother’s Day. How do you honor your mom on Mother’s Day? For those of us that have lost their mom, Mother’s Day can be painful. Honoring the other mother figures in your life can help – maybe phone them if you don’t live near each other. Telling grandchildren about the mothers that have passed, maybe telling a few funny stories, writing a tribute, doing something in memory of the person we lost are ways of honoring them.

Remembering those handmade gifts we may have made for our moms when we were young offers inspiration for gifts of today. Here are a few ideas:

• A playlist of favorite tunes. Maybe a smart speaker, like Alexa, that can be programmed so all mom has to say is “play my music”.

• Host a family event to watch her favorite movie, show or musical. Mood setting candles, dim lights, and lots of popcorn! Or maybe a game or puzzle night.

• Enjoy a fancy meal at home, perhaps catered from a favorite restaurant, invite family and friends.

• Maybe share a hairstylist appointment or have a hairstylist come by your mom’s house.

• Pulling together a themed memory collage, a photo album of favorite photos or maybe framing a special photo in a fancy frame.

• Go to a social activity together, perhaps at the local senior center.

• Bake a favorite dessert together. The smell of a childhood favorite dessert may spark some happy memories and conversation.

• Help your mom fulfill a dream. Maybe a trip to a place she has always wanted to visit or an activity she has always wanted to do.

We wish everyone a meaningful and memorable Mother’s Day, and a happy spring.

Submitted by Maureen Haggbloom and the Anchorage Aging and Disability Resource Center Team.

Alaska’s Aging and Disability Resource Centers connect seniors, people with disabilities, and caregivers with long-term services and supports. For assistance and answers, call your regional ADRC toll-free at 1-855-565-2017. Or visit the Alaska Div. of Senior and Disabilities Services ADRC website at https://dhss.alaska.gov/ddss/pages/adrc.

Anchorage symposium on Parkinson’s disease

Senior Voice Staff

Hope Conference Alaska, presented by the Northwest Parkinson’s Foundation, takes place May 6 at the Anchorage Senior Activity Center, 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The educational symposium will feature guest speakers Dr. Pinky Agarwal, with updates on Parkinson’s disease, and Dr. Karin Duncan, discussing gut health and Parkinson’s. Activities include a Qi Gong demonstration, Rock Steady Boxing, a resource fair and more for people with Parkinson’s, care partners, family, friends and interested health professionals. Boxed lunch provided by Sweet Caribou. Admission is free. To register, call Denny, 907-936-8909 or email denny@nwpf.org.

Preferred Care at Home

Preferred Care at Home

• Meal Preparation
• Dress/ Hygiene Assistance
• Housekeeping/ Laundry
• Holiday & Vacation Coverage
• Live-In Services & More

We are committed to making your choice possible with quality services at affordable prices.

Call For Your Free In-Home Assessment

Lynetta Hagel-Grant, Owner
907.868.1919

Opus Memoria
Compassionate Care for Those with Dementia

Daily activities are in place to keep the residents safe, active and living out their memories through all senses. Caregivers are on site 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

Call Now!

Opus Memoria

Call for information on private rooms, fenced one acre property, one caregiver to care for three residents, specialized training on caring for seniors with dementia, staff required to complete continued education for Dementia and Alzheimer’s and ADA compliant.

Suzanne Hickel, Owner
907.677.1919

Hickel@OpusMemoria.com | www.OpusMemoria.com

Senior Voice, May 2023 | 7
Beneficial blueberries and smart e-bandages

By JOHN SCHIESZER
Medical Minutes

Powerful benefits from wild blueberries for older adults

New research published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition further supports daily consumption of wild blueberries for improving memory, brain function and blood pressure in older adults. A 12-week clinical trial called BluFlow, led by Dr. Ana Rodriguez-Mateos, an associate professor in Nutrition at the Department of Nutritional Sciences of King’s College London, investigated the cognitive and vascular benefits of daily wild blueberry consumption in healthy older adults.

The BluFlow, double blind, randomized, placebo-controlled trial focused on healthy older men and women between the ages 65 and 80. Participants were divided into two groups with one receiving a beverage made with 26 grams of freeze dried whole blueberry powder (equivalent to about 3/4 cup whole berries, or 178 grams of fresh blueberries), and the other group receiving a placebo. Both groups consumed their beverages daily at the same time over the course of 12 weeks.

Scientists found that daily wild blueberry supplementation for 12 weeks led to improvements in cognitive and vascular function. Specifically, those who consumed the wild blueberry beverage daily exhibited improved memory, improved accuracy, quicker reaction time on various tasks, improved peripheral vascular function, and lower blood pressure.

“In terms of vascular function, our results reinforce what we’ve found before in younger populations, which is that consuming wild blueberries improves blood vessel function as well as lowers blood pressure,” said Dr. Rodriguez-Mateos. “We think the effects are driven by the blue pigments in blueberries, the anthocyanins, and we found increases in their metabolites in the blood and urine of the volunteers consuming wild blueberry.”

The study also documented increases in some beneficial bacteria in the gut that seem to be driven by wild blueberry consumption, although larger studies are needed to confirm the role of the gut microbiota on the beneficial effects, according to the researchers.

Smart bandages improving care in new ways

Most of the time, when someone gets a cut, scrape, burn or other wound, the body takes care of itself and heals on its own. But this is not always the case. Diabetes can interfere with the healing process and create wounds that will not go away and that could become infected and fester.

These kinds of chronic wounds are not just debilitating for the people suffering from them. They are also a drain on healthcare systems, representing a $25 billion financial burden in the U.S. alone each year. However, a new kind of smart bandage developed at Caltech may make treatment of these wounds easier, more effective and less expensive.

“There are many different types of chronic wounds, especially in diabetic ulcers and burns that last a long time and cause huge issues for the patient,” said Wei Gao, an assistant professor of medical engineering at Caltech. “There is a demand for technology that can facilitate recovery.”

Unlike a typical bandage, which might only consist of layers of absorbent material, the smart bandages are made from a flexible and stretchy polymer containing embedded electronics and medications. The electronics allow the sensor to monitor for molecules like uric acid or lactate and conditions involving pH levels or temperature in the wound that may be indicative of inflammation or bacterial infection.

The bandage can respond in several ways. It can transmit the gathered data from the wound wirelessly to a nearby computer, tablet or smartphone for review by the patient or a medical professional. Further, it can deliver an antibiotic or other medication stored within the bandage directly to the wound site to treat the inflammation and infection. Amazingly, it can apply a low-level electrical field to the wound to stimulate tissue growth resulting in faster healing.

In animal models under laboratory conditions, the smart bandages showed the ability to provide real-time updates about wound conditions and the animals’ metabolic states to researchers, as well as offer speed healing of chronically infected wounds.

“We have shown this proof of concept in small animal models, but down the road we would like to increase the stability of the device and also test it on larger chronic wounds because the wound parameters and microenvironment may vary from site to site,” said Gao.

John Schieszer is an award-winning national journalist and radio and podcast broadcaster of The Medical Minute. He can be reached at medicalminutes@gmail.com.

ADVERTISE IN SeniorVoice Alaska seniors have buying power!

Senior Voice advertising representative Anne Tompkins can help you reach our readers.

Email her at A.Tompkins@seniorvoicealaska.com or call 907-276-1059. Toll-free 1-800-478-1059.

Senior Voice, May 2023

A whole new way to get healthy

Omada® is a digital lifestyle change program that inspires healthy habits that last.

Omada surrounds participants with the tools and support they need to lose weight and reduce their risk of developing type 2 diabetes.

- Personalized program
- Weekly online lessons
- Professional health coach
- Small online peer group
- Wireless smart scale

There’s no cost to adult residents of Alaska if they are eligible and at risk for type 2 diabetes.

Learn more: omadahealth.com/alaska

For more information, email diabetes@alaska.gov
Grandparents raising their grandchildren

By KAREN CASANOVAS
For Senior Voice

Q: My daughter has recently gotten divorced and previous occasional visits with grandchildren has now turned into full-time care, due to an absent father and a daughter who cannot afford to care for them on her own. How do I handle the ambivalence towards this situation?

A: These days with circumstances of divorce, incarceration of a parent, death of the children’s parents, or when a family situation changes, it becomes a new beginning for older adults when they start caring for their grandkids. Statistically, more grandparents are caregivers for their grandchildren than generations before them. Many, like you, are grappling with how to care for and discipline their grandchildren.

Acceptance and communication

First, acknowledge your feelings and accept them. Those emotions do not mean you love your grandchildren any less, just know that what you are experiencing is normal. And there are measures that take into account everyone’s well-being when building a new and different relationship with your grandkid(s).

Delicate communication that earns your grandchild’s trust is an initial step. An infant or young child may not always be able to express their emotions, therefore how you come across to them matters. Encourage your grandchild to communicate their feelings without passing judgment or ignoring what they have to say. Help your grandchild identify their emotions. You could ask, “You seem sad. Is something bothering you?” Young children may also express their emotions through play, so be observant to see if they are acting out, or seem angry.

Consider all forms of communication if your grandchild doesn’t have frequent contact with one, both or either parent any longer. Is it possible to conduct a video chat, send a text, write an email or a letter? Encourage grandchildren to draw, paint, create music or write down their thoughts and feelings about the loss.

Be sensitive to your grandchild’s feelings, and their disappointment of lost contact. Be supportive and comforting by letting them know they are in a safe place. Establishing routines and setting age-appropriate guidelines, rules or boundaries can also help children adjust and adapt to new surroundings or schedules. Time with you may need some flexibility at first; your role has changed from an occasional visitor to adopting a “kinship” role. You are now managing their appointments, homework, discipline, activities and meal prep.

Legal assistance

Finally, know your rights, whether a temporary legal guardian, long-term custodian, or full-time caregiver. Find advocacy and support groups, or if circumstances warrant, page 22 please.
Volunteer hospice is a community resource

By SUMMER JOHNSON-THOMAS
Hospice of Anchorage

In February, former U.S. President Jimmy Carter decided to spend his remaining time at home with his family and receive hospice care. Despite his remarkable longevity and vitality until the end, President Carter still faced the inevitability of aging and the need for end-of-life care. After hearing this news, many people in the U.S. began wondering: what is hospice care? Hospice provides compassionate care to people nearing the end of their lives. It is a form of specialized healthcare that improves the quality of life of patients and their families during the final stages of a terminal illness.

There are two types of hospice care available: Medicare hospice and volunteer hospice. Medicare hospice is a government-funded program that provides palliative care to patients who have a terminal illness with a prognosis of six months or less to live. Volunteer hospices, on the other hand, are non-profit organizations that provide free or low-cost end-of-life care to patients who do not fit the qualifications of Medicare hospice. While both types of hospice care provide similar services, volunteer hospices often rely on the support of volunteers and donations to provide care. Hospice of Anchorage is a volunteer hospice.

Hospice of Anchorage services

In addition to end-of-life care for patients, Hospice of Anchorage also has a resource center open to anyone in Anchorage at no cost. Part of the resource center is a lending library with books on chronic illness, grief, end-of-life, care. It is also a loan closet with a wide variety of durable medical equipment and supplies including walkers, wheelchairs, shower chairs and incontinence supplies. These resources can be helpful for anyone, regardless of their current stage of life. Additionally, the resource center has free items for people experiencing dementia, like fidget blankets, robotic dogs and easy-to-use music players. These things can provide comfort and stimulation for people with dementia and improve their quality of life.

How can I help?

Volunteer hospices keep their doors open through volunteers, grants and donations. Hospice of Anchorage’s loan closet is run on donations, and there is a high need in our community for these free resources. Currently, the loan closet is low on:
- transport and self-propelled wheelchairs
- 4-wheeled walkers
- bedside commodes
- shower chairs/benches
- unopened gloves
- unopened diapers
- size M incontinence briefs

If you, or an organization you belong to, is able to donate any of these items (or make a monetary donation in support of these items), please contact Hospice of Anchorage at 907-561-5322.

Volunteer hospices provide a vital service to the community. Through donations and volunteering, our Anchorage community can maintain this circle of help, hope, and comfort. Summer Johnson-Thomas is a Hospice of Anchorage volunteer.

Health fairs

May 13, Sitka Community Health Fair, Harrigan Hall 330 Harbor Dr., 8 a.m. to noon.
May 20, Central Central Community, Circle Historical Museum, Mile 128 Steese Hwy., 8 to 11 a.m.
May 20, Nikiski Community Health Fair at Nikiski Community Rec., Center, 50097 Kenai Spur Hwy., 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.
May 23, Fairbanks Alaska Health Fair Fairbanks Office Draw, 725 26th Ave., Suite 201, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Plan a health fair of your own

Don’t miss the opportunity to bring affordable blood tests, free screenings and vital health education to your community or organization this fall. Partner with Alaska Health Fair, Inc. to encourage your constituents to prioritize their well-being. To reserve your spot and schedule a community or worksite health fair, contact our program director. Sharon Phillips is the Alaska Health Fair, Inc. Tanana Valley/Northern Region program director.
Joining or starting a pickleball club

By JIM LAVRAKAS
For Senior Voice

There’s something to be said for strength in numbers. Joining a club where you live, or where you go to vacation, even on short visits, gives you that advantage of numbers: New people to play with, and more options for venues.

When I plan travel, one of the first things I look for are clubs and venues in the area where I’m going. You can find options at this website, https://www.places2play.org/, or you can just Google “Pickleball” and the city or area you are traveling to.

Usually, clubs in larger cities will have a website with more detailed information on what the club offers, where there are playing venues, the cost to play, and any special programs they offer (like beginners’ classes, levels of play times, social get togethers).

For example, on the home page of the Anchorage Pickleball Club (https://www.anchoragepickleballclub.com/), they feature their monthly schedule, which typically has up to six events throughout the month. These are special events like tournaments or recurring events like clinics. On their “Places to Play” page, they list outdoor and indoor places with the times and cost to play.

Other web pages on their site offer resources and information on pickleball in general, local equipment dealers, and their membership signup.

Yearly dues are a very reasonable $25 a year for adults, $15 for 18 and under. For that you get:

- Opportunity to register before non-members for events
- Discount on all events (non-members pay $15 more for all events)
- Access to “members only” section on website
- Company discounts, which are in the members only section
- Secondary insurance for all players

Monthly news blast

This is what a club with nearly 600 members can offer for a very reasonable membership fee. Plus, those 600 members have a strong voice in advocating for their sport.

In Homer, where I live, I’ve been helping the local pickleball community start a club. A startup committee of four people, myself included, has forged ahead and become an Alaska non-profit corporation with a recently granted Federal 501(c)(3) charitable status. This was done under the direction of a loose band of about a dozen people who are, in turn, a part of about 125 folks from a collected email list. That list is the product of signups at the two indoor facilities we use in Homer: the city run Homer Pickleball Club website home page.

The Homer Pickleball Club home page.

Jim Lavrakas/Far North Photo

Do You Have Low Vision?

Don’t let macular degeneration or other eye conditions slow you down.

We can help you keep doing what is important to you even when your doctor can no longer correct your eyesight.

Low Vision Clinics
Visually Impaired Senior Support Groups
State Wide Outreach

Alaska Center for the Blind and Visually Impaired

www.alaskabvi.org

3903 Taft Drive, Anchorage, AK 99517

Call us at 907-248-7770
or 1-800-770-7517

Free Legal Services for Seniors!

Alaska Legal Services Corporation provides legal assistance for seniors* (60 and older) with housing, government benefits, wills, healthcare, and more!

Call your local ALSC office to learn more:

Anchorage …….. 272-9431 or (888) 478-2572
Utokiaġvik …….. 855-8998 or (855) 755-8998
Bethel ………….. 543-2237 or (800) 478-2230
Dillingham …….. 842-1425 or (888) 391-1475
Fairbanks ……….. 452-5181 or (800) 478-5401
Juneau ………….. 586-6425 or (800) 789-6426
Kenai ………….. 395-0352 or (855) 395-0352
Ketchikan ……… 225-6420 or (877) 525-6420
Kotzebue ……… 442-3500 or (800) 622-9797
Nome ………….. 443-2230 or (888) 495-6663
Palmer …………. 746-4636 or (888) 996-4636

Additional information is available at:

www.alsc-law.org

*Funded by State of Alaska Department of Health and Social Services, Division of Senior and Disabilities Services. Preference for seniors in social and economic need.
Anchorage Elder Mentor Leeta loves her service

By RURAL CAP ELDER MENTOR TEAM

For Senior Voice

My name is Leeta Topps, and I moved to Alaska from Chicago and have lived in Anchorage for a long time. I enjoy reading, walking and volunteering. I love my neighbors because we live in a beautiful community. I have a lot of fun playing games with my grandchildren and the kids at school. I have been an Elder Mentor for about five years. I love my service in the community and have made great friendships and connections.

At Mountain View Elementary last year, I supported children with special needs, and they were so wonderful and sweet. Runny noses and eyes tired from crying, and still they just are loving on you.

Miss Ginger picked up my things from the school when the year was over, and I remember being so surprised with the gifts the students put together for me. I’m looking at it right now. They made me all kinds of cards and drew pictures, and it says “Thank you Miss T,” with photos they took of me when I wasn’t looking. And they all signed it, “we will miss you.” How thought-ful! Another one of the classes I helped with was surprising with the gifts they all signed it, “we will when I wasn’t looking. And “Thank you Miss T,” with everyone for class. And the The Elder Mentor Program helps young people grow in wisdom and respect. Children learn how to love each other and how to show compassion. They see us coming and know we are nice. We are coming to help. I’m not coming to change any laws, or step on anyone’s toes, I am here for support in the classroom and in the entire school. This is for our community. What we do reaches beyond just the school.

I hope you enjoy my family recipe for Gore Springs Mississippi Pound Cake, which is posted with this story at www.seniorvoicealaska.com. This recipe is over 100 years old and has been passed down from generation to generation. My daughter tried adding a recipe in our Elder Mentor Cookbook. As a part of AmeriCorps Seniors, you are invited to AmeriCorps events happening in Alaska and around the nation.

Volunteers report being happier in their daily life because of their service. Volunteering as an Elder Mentor keeps both the body and mind engaged, and focused on joyful tasks, like reading to the students. Review your knowledge and refresh your mind through helping children with their times tables, puzzles, and learning how to spell. Give from the heart, and receive so much in return.

The Elder Mentor Program is currently accepting applications for the 2023-2024 school year. Benefits for qualifying seniors 55+ include PTO, a tax free stipend, paid holidays, free meals and travel assistance. Please call for more information and to apply, 907-865-7276, and check out the online application and learn more at eldermentor.org. Reach the team via e-mail at eldermentors@ruralcap.org.

---

Gift of Growing

VH HYDROPONICS

Providing opportunities to feed people in a better way.

There is no better gift than giving our children tools to help secure their future.

- We sell hydroponics systems to grow food 365 days a year
- Hydroponics farming uses less water, less land, and no pesticides
- We grow farmers for food independence

Contact us to learn how to leave your legacy through the purchase of a Sunny Pro XL

(907) 782-4420

sales@vhhydroponics.com
vhhydroponics.com

---

THOMAS CENTER

A Unique Independent Living Alternative

Senior Apartments for Rent

- Call today • Schedule a tour • Learn about our activity offerings
- (907) 538-9995 | www.ThomasCenterAK.com

2130 E. Tudor Road | Anchorage, Alaska on the west side of the St. Mary’s Episcopal Church Campus
Calling all brainiacs!

Take steps toward a healthier brain

From socializing to brain games, exercise, sleep, and healthy eating, maintaining brain health is an active pursuit. Join AARP Alaska for this six-part virtual event series with information and resources from the Global Council on Brain Health.

Fridays at 10 AM, January 27 to March 3, 2023

Details and registration at aarp.org/ak
Rambles
News from the Grapevine

continued from page 13

the sidewalk at Seward Senior Center and walk the historical building route, the first lake to second lake trail, or Scheffer Creek to the Alaska SeaLife Center on the coastal trail. Walking poles provided free. For information, call 907-224-5604, … Also in Seward, the American Legion Post 5 sponsors a free community breakfast on Sunday, May 21, from 9 to 11 a.m. Call the senior center for details, 907-224-5604, … And one more Seward item: the foot care clinics at Seward Senior Center have gone to an every—other-month schedule, with the next set for May 18. Call 907-224-5604, to make an appointment …

Kodiak Senior Center put out a call earlier this spring for members to bring in high school photos of themselves. The photos will be on display at the center throughout the month of May, in honor of Older Americans Month. Check it out and see if you recognize anyone. Details: 907-486-6181 … Atten- tion Anchorage—area seniors: Interested in learning more about fellow businesses and agencies providing senior services in the Anchorage and Mat-Su area? Want to get the word out about your own service? The monthly Service Providers Breakfast, sponsored by Older Persons Action Group, Inc., is an opportunity for all the above. Informal, early and free, the event begins at 8 a.m., second Wednesday, at a different host location each month. Breakfast provided. The next date is May 10, hosted by Anchor- age ADRC. Call Older Persons Action Group, Inc. at 907-276-1059 for location information and to RSVP for this event, or for more information on future events and to be added to our e-mail reminder list. Rambles is compiled from senior center newsletters, web- sites and reader tips from around the state. Email your Rambles items to editor@seniorvoicealaska.com.

Nurse
continued from page 13

patients recovered and went on to lead active lives. It was in 1998 at Mom’s memorial service, that I first heard about the 1951 arrival to Alaska of “The Nurse from New York”. Quoting the daugh- ter of Dr. Frances Phillips, a Seward Sanitarium phy- sician—surgeon, “Martine anticipated meeting the surgeon and Medical Direc- tor, whom she would assist, and was very concerned that she make a good first impression. She dressed in her finest clothes and high heel shoes to disem- bark from the steamship ‘Alaska’. As she walked down the board ramp off the ship, one of her heels got caught in between the boards and she literally tripped out of her shoe to meet the doctor and group of Methodist women waiting at the bottom of the ramp. Embarrassment didn’t last long. It was time to roll up her sleeves, forget the high heel shoes, and get right to work at the hospital where she was so desperately needed. She became one of my father’s regarding appointment of Mom to the Board of Nursing for the Territory of Alaska.

Since I was too young to remember, Dad described her little “office” — a small porch at the house where we lived in Spenard. Mom attended a national Board of Nursing convention somewhere back on the East Coast in the fall of 1951, when I was in kindergarten. Dad also told how he took care of us four kids in the little campground out on the Homer Spit when my brother was only a couple of months old in the sum- mer of 1962, just so Mom could attend the state convention held that year in Bo- mer. In 1963, when our family moved to Glennallen for Dad’s new job with Copper Valley Electric, Mom turned her duties over to someone else.

Glennallen’s small Faith Hospi- tal was staffed with missionary nurs- es, so after a few years Mom attended classes at Alaska Methodist Univer- sity (now Alaska Pacific University) to earn credits and receive a teaching certificate. That is the Mom I knew — a teacher — as did the folks in the Copper River Valley. Long after her passing, during my years living in Slana, if someone learned I was the daughter of Mart- ine Clayton, I heard many good comments. I learned of specific examples of her unique teaching style and the positive effect she had on their children. These were people not just from Glennallen, but McCarthy and Slana as well. Mom very successfully changed careers in mid-life, a genera- tion before that became more common.

Old records, which long before could have been discarded, had turned into a history treasure for me, adding more to my knowl- edge about the “Nurse from New York”. A lady I remember with love and honor this Mother’s Day, 2023.

Maraley McMichael is a lifelong Alaskan currently residing in Palmer. Email her at maraleymcmichael@gmail.com.
Ribbon cutting at Mid-Valley Adult Day Service in Houston

By MELISSA SONNEK
For Senior Voice

Wasilla Area Seniors, Inc. (WASI) will hold a grand opening and ribbon cutting ceremony, Friday, May 5 at 2 p.m., to celebrate the new WASI Mid-Valley Adult Day Services, located at 1979 W. Mid-Valley Way in Houston. All are welcome.

WASI’s mission is to help seniors live as independently as possible for as long as possible. As the number of seniors continues to increase dramatically in the Mat-Su Valley, families, friends and professionals are seeking out more specialized care and support services for a vulnerable adult. The WASI Adult Day Services Program provides a variety of health, social and supportive services in a protective setting to adults who are physically frail or face the challenges of Alzheimer’s, dementia, a developmental disability, or brain trauma. Healthy snacks are offered, and exercise programs are available. Participants can receive assistance with adult daily living activities, participate in arts and crafts projects, music, holiday parties, games, and other activities. Transportation is provided.

Thanks to and from the program is available. WASI Mid-Valley Adult Day Services currently accepts Medicaid Choice Waiver, Tri-West Healthcare Alliance for veterans and self-pay.

In addition, WASI provides daily services at the Mid-Valley Senior Center, Houston location. Lunch is available to seniors age 60 and older from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for a suggested donation of $6. Guests under age 60 are $10. There are daily exercise classes like Bingo Book, shuffle board, tai chi classes, Puzzle Club and trivia. The center has a library, notary public, Free WiFi and computer lab, low vision magnification equipment, and in the summertime there are garden planters available. The Mid-Valley Senior Center is open Monday – Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For more information about the Ribbon Cutting Ceremony or to inquire about the ADS program, call 907-416-5670, email wasiads@alaskaseniors.com, or check the Facebook page at https://www.facebook.com/midvalley-seniorcenter

Melissa Sonnek is the WASI Mid-Valley ADS program manager.

Calendar of Events

May 3 Anchorage Older Americans Month Kickoff event at Anchorage Senior Activity Center, 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Speakers, performances, presentation of Ron Hammett Award. Seating limited. Will be streamed online via ZOOM. For information or to RSVP to 907-770-2000 or 907-770-2006

May 6 Anchorage “Amblin’ for Alzheimer’s,” Anchorage Golf Course, 9 a.m. to noon. Annual fundraiser for Alzheimer’s Resource of Alaska, a noncompetitive walk, participants can work in teams or as individuals. For more information and online registration, https://bit.ly/41AYOxq

May 11 Fairbanks Senior Recognition Day at the Carlson Center, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Presentations, food, and awards ceremony for outstanding achievement recipients. 907-459-1136 for information

May 5 Palmer Pioneers of Alaska Women’s Ligo #11 Style Show and Spring Luncheon, Palmer Moose Lodge, 113 South Cobb Street, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Fashions from the Beaded Moose and Mat-Su Senior Services. Door prizes. Wear big hats! Tickets, $15. Call Norma, 907-745-3387 or Fran, 907-376-3865

May 13 Talkeetna “Clean Air Challenge” bike ride fundraiser for the American Lung Association. Meet at Talkeetna Alaska Lodge and choose a route, from family-friendly 10-mile to challenging 100-mile. There’s also a “Cycle Your Own Way” option, with no set route or date. Visit the website for more information, including registration and costs. www.cleanairchallengeak.org

May 14 Nationwide Mother’s Day

May 17 Juneau State legislative session ends

May 18 Homer Homer Senior Citizens, Inc. annual membership meeting at Homer Senior Center, 12:30 p.m. Attend in person, online or call-in to vote. For more information or to register, call 907-235-4555 or email bonny@homersoniors.com

May 23 Anchorage Senior Poetry Workshop at Mt. View Library, 120 Bragaw St., 2 to 3 p.m. Join local poet and facilitator Brian Hutton for a poetry workshop, including exercises and discussions on creativity and mental well being. Info, 907-343-2830

May 29 Nationwide Memorial Day

Send us your calendar items
Send to: Senior Voice, 3340 Arctic Blvd., Suite 106, Anchorage AK 99503 editor@seniorvoicealaska.com
Deadline for June edition is May 15.
By LAUREL DOWNING BILL
Senior Voice Correspondent

This coming Memorial Day, it seems fitting to honor the sacrifice that America’s brave military made in the Aleutians 80 years ago this month.

Under the mistaken belief the Doolittle Raiders had taken off from an air base in the Aleutian chain to bomb Tokyo during spring 1942, Japanese forces bombarded Dutch Harbor two months later. They then proceeded to occupy the islands of Kiska and Attu, although most Americans had no idea the enemy was entrenched on our soil — no enemy had occupied American soil since the War of 1812.

That battle for the Aleutians became — in proportion to the number of opposing troops — the second most costly war in the Pacific, second only to Iwo Jima. It was later described as the most difficult and dangerous in all modern warfare.

Our U.S. infantry made the first amphibious island landing in its history with about 15,000 troops arriving at Attu the beginning of May. Regiments hit three locations on the 40-mile island: Red Beach, Holtz Bay and Massacre Bay.

Massacre Bay got its name when Russians killed 15 Aleuts there around 200 years before. American boys soon had their own variations on that theme, such as “Assassination Alley” and “Carnage Corner” as the battle raged on.

The island’s terrain was almost as hard to conquer as the enemy. The fog and mist and continuous raw chill took their toll as well as the enemy bullets. A campaign that was expected to last a few days, stretched into weeks, and it wasn’t until May 29 that American pincers finally closed.

On the night of May 30, a banzai charge of wildly yelling Japanese soldiers was stopped. When their attack failed, 500 men committed mass suicide by pulling the pins of their grenades and holding them against their chests.

The campaign ended with 549 American and 2,351 Japanese dead. The fog and mist and continuous raw chill took their toll as well as the enemy bullets. A campaign that was expected to last a few days, stretched into weeks, and it wasn’t until May 29 that American pincers finally closed.

Certainly, the Aleutians was one of the most costly war in the Pacific, second only to Iwo Jima. It later was described as the most difficult and dangerous in all modern warfare.

In May 1943, American and Canadian troops landed on Attu in the Aleutians and began to take back the island from Japanese invaders.

In May 1943, American and Canadian troops landed on Attu in the Aleutians and began to take back the island from Japanese invaders.
Fans are still dreaming of Jeannie

By NICK THOMAS

Tinseltown Talks

No doubt many a teenage lad, and even a few adults, developed a major crush on Barbara Eden during her five-season run in the 1960s sitcom “I Dream of Jeannie.” Now at 90, fans are delighted to see the actress looking so youthful and healthy.

“I have exercised all my life and now do a mild spin (stationary) bicycle and walking,” Eden said from her home in Los Angeles. “I’ve always been careful about what I eat but I’m not fanatic about it – I’m a carnivore! I try to stay away from sugar, but unfortunately I like it too much.”

As for her skincare, she does adhere to a ritual. “I use sunscreen every day and Estee Lauder line repair that I put underneath the sunscreen and underneath moisturizer before I go to bed.”

But Eden and her husband of over 30 years, Jon Eicholtz, did experience a health scare after contracting COVID.

“We caught it early and Jon was very ill,” she recalled. “Our doctor had us infused with the antibodies right away and luckily I wasn’t sick. We did catch the variant later, but it was just like a cold.”

Growing up in San Francisco, young Barbara dreamed of becoming a singer, spending two years at the local Conservatory of Music and taking singing engagements with bands around the Bay Area. But after moving to LA in the early 1950s, her stunning beauty, charm and talent inevitably led her to Hollywood.

Best known for her role as the magical genie in the popular NBC series, Eden has delighted fans for decades with appearances at TV conventions and Hollywood autograph shows. She continues to travel, speaking to audiences and showing clips of her film and TV career, and taking questions. This year, she’s already visited Georgia, Florida and North Carolina (see www.barbaraeden.com).

And while some actors who became closely associated with one standout role may distance themselves from that character, Eden never resented her connection to “Jeannie.”

“Why would I want to step away from it?” she asked. “I’m lucky to have very polite fans and have loved meeting them over the years in so many cities.”

Beyond her “Jeannie” role, Eden’s entertainment career has been extensive with over 25 film roles, appearances in numerous TV movies and series, and a vast stage career that includes touring major U.S. cities in the beloved play, “Love Letters,” first performed in 1994 with “Jeannie” co-star Larry Hagman.

Hagman dealt with alcohol problems while working on “Jeannie” and could be difficult on the set. “Larry was his own worst enemy but was always wonderful to me,” she said. “He acted out with the crew and would be difficult with male guest stars who came on the show. But we had a good rapport and worked together very well. I toured with him in ‘Love Letters’ and he was just wonderful.”

Eden is also an author, releasing her best-selling autobiography, “Jeannie out of the Bottle” in 2012. Two years ago, she also published her first children’s book, “Barbara and the Djinn,” which perhaps not surprisingly features a young girl named Barbara and yes, a genie.

“The little girl magically travels to different places and meets different people, learning what is most important in life which is kindness and understanding,” she explained. “I’ve loved to read ever since I was three or four when my mother and aunt would read to me. I thought how sad that children today just look at their phones and computers, so I wanted to give them a book to hold that can take them on an adventure using their imagination. It’s a great book to give to the grand-children.”

While she has no plans for more books, Eden may appear on stage again for those still dreaming of seeing “Jeannie” in person.

“I don’t have any dates, but I’d love to do ‘Love Letters’ again,” she says. “It’s gratifying that people still want to see me perform and hear me talk about my career.”

Nick Thomas teaches at Auburn University at Montgomery in Alabama and has written features, columns, and interviews for numerous magazines and newspapers. See www.getnickt.org.

Barbara Eden as “Jeannie” in the popular 1960s series and more recently, age 91. Courtesy Harry Langdon, Jr. NBC photo

TWO YEARS AGO, BARBARA EDEN AUTHORED AND PUBLISHED HER FIRST CHILDREN’S BOOK, “BARBARA AND THE DJINN.” MU Cheshire photo

MEDICARE & BENEFITS ENROLLMENT CENTER

Take advantage of these FREE SERVICES!

• Medicare benefits
• Medicaid benefits
• Community Resource Programs (Food, Utilities and Many More)
• Medicare Application Assistance & Counseling
• Fraud Education

ANCHORAGE 907-770-2000 anchorageaseniorcenter.org

CHERRY HATCHER • OWNER

AND YOUR FAMILY.

WE ARE HONORED TO SERVE THE STATE OF ALASKA FOR OVER 40 YEARS. IT IS OUR PLEDGE TO OFFER THE VERY BEST SERVICE AND VALUE TO YOU AND YOUR FAMILY.

JARED DYE ~ OWNER

Witzleben Legacy Funeral Home • Anchorage • 907-277-1682
Legacy Heritage Chapel at Angelus • Anchorage • 907-336-3338
Kehl’s Legacy Funeral Home • Anchorage • 907-344-1497
Alaskan Memorial Park & Mortuary • Juneau • 907-789-0611
Chapel of Chimes Funeral Home • Fairbanks • 907-451-1110
Alaskan Memorial Park & Mortuary • Juneau • 907-789-0611
Kehl’s Palmer Mortuary • Palmer • 907-745-3580
Wasilla Heritage Chapel • Wasilla • 907-373-3840

PMI CREMATION SERVICES

WE ARE HONORED TO SERVE THE STATE OF ALASKA FOR OVER 40 YEARS. IT IS OUR PLEDGE TO OFFER THE VERY BEST SERVICE AND VALUE TO YOU AND YOUR FAMILY.

JARED DYE ~ OWNER

Witzleben Legacy Funeral Home • Anchorage • 907-277-1682
Legacy Heritage Chapel at Angelus • Anchorage • 907-336-3338
Kehl’s Legacy Funeral Home • Anchorage • 907-344-1497
Alaskan Memorial Park & Mortuary • Juneau • 907-789-0611
Chapel of Chimes Funeral Home • Fairbanks • 907-451-1110
Alaskan Memorial Park & Mortuary • Juneau • 907-789-0611
Kehl’s Palmer Mortuary • Palmer • 907-745-3580
Wasilla Heritage Chapel • Wasilla • 907-373-3840

ANCHORAGE 907-770-1682
Family members who kill, in Hollywood and real life

By KENNETH KIRK
For Senior Voice

One of my guilty pleasures is watching the latest celebrity “trial of the month” on Court TV, and I definitely tracked the recent Alex Murdaugh murder trial.

If you haven’t been following it, Alex Murdaugh was a powerful lawyer in South Carolina, who is accused of murdering his wife and his 22-year-old son. He claimed he was elsewhere at the time of the murder, but police found a cell phone on one of the victims, with video taken just before the murders, and you can hear Alex’s voice in the background. He was convicted and will spend the rest of his life in prison.

But being an estate planning attorney, my mind could not help but wonder about the inheritance implications of the case. I know nothing about South Carolina’s inheritance laws, but I do know what would happen in Alaska.

Alaska has a statute, AS 13.12.803, which is designed to prevent anyone from inheriting from someone they kill. If there was a “felonious killing,” the killer is not allowed to inherit from the victim in any way, including through probate, a living trust, beneficiary designations or just about any other method. The legislature spent two and a half pages of text trying to cover every possible way someone could conceivably inherit, and making sure they couldn’t if there was a felonious killing.

What is a felonious killing? Anything that falls within certain criminal statutes, including not only murder and manslaughter, but also criminally negligent homicide. If there is a criminal conviction, that resolves the issue of whether it was a felonious killing. If there was no criminal conviction, there is a procedure in the statute for an aggrieved party to ask the courts to determine that there was a felonious killing, even if the authorities never brought criminal charges.

So what happens, under the Alaska statute, if you feloniously kill someone and there is an inheritance you otherwise would have received from them? The inheritance passes as if you had died before the decedent. If you murder your rich uncle, who left you $1 million in his will, that money goes to whomever would have received that money, under the terms of the will, if you had died before your uncle. If the will said “I leave $1 million to my beloved nephew Buford if he survives me, but if he doesn’t survive me to his then-surviving issue”, then the money would go to your children instead.

But Mr. Murdaugh, who had money, murdered his son, who didn’t have money. But while his son didn’t have much money in life, his son’s estate will have money. That’s because his son’s estate will have a claim against Mr. Murdaugh for wrongful death. Apparently his son left no wife or children behind, so whoever the next living kin of the Murdaugh clan might be could open a probate estate and sue Alex for pretty much everything he is worth. Although they might have to get in line; Alex Murdaugh was facing indictment for embezzling millions of dollars from clients of his law firm, and those people will also have causes of action.

Looking at the statute makes me think of another case, albeit a fictional one. There is a movie called “Fargo,” which is set in Minnesota. Yes, I know
Artificial intelligence and ChatGPT, in its own words

By BOB DELAURENTIS

Bob’s Tech Talk

This month’s Tech Talk is a little different. Nearly all of it was written by a computer. This technology has been under development for decades. It has been a staple of science fiction movies since I was a kid.

Recently, one of the most advanced chatbots ever constructed was made public. ChatGPT has washed across tech like a tsunami. The only thing anyone seems to agree on is that the world has changed forever — whether for better or worse remains to be seen.

What follows is the transcript of an interview I did with ChatGPT. I did not change a single word.

Q. What is ChatGPT?
A. I am ChatGPT, a large language model created by OpenAI, based on the GPT (Generative Pre-trained Transformer) architecture. I have been trained on a massive amount of text data using unsupervised learning techniques, allowing me to generate human-like responses to a wide range of prompts and questions. I can understand and generate text in multiple languages, and I can perform tasks such as language translation, summarization, and sentiment analysis. My primary goal is to help people with different things like answering questions, translating languages, and giving information. People can talk to me and I’ll do my best to help them out.

Q. How do you know how to learn new words and how to put them together to make sentences?
A. I know something kind of like that, but with lots and lots of words and sentences that I read on the internet. I learned how to put words and sentences together to make responses that sound like something a person might say.

Q. Could you answer the same question again, this time so that a young child may be able to understand it?
A. Hi there! I’m ChatGPT, and I’m kind of like a really smart robot who can talk to you and answer your questions.

Q. You know how you learn new words and how to put them together to make sentences? Well, I did something kind of like that, but with lots and lots of words and sentences that I read on the internet. I learned how to put words and sentences together to make responses that sound like something a person might say.

Q. Your responses are not perfect, and there are several factors that can contribute to errors or inaccuracies in my answers.
A. One major limitation of my training data is that it reflects the biases and limitations of the sources from which it was derived. If the training data is incomplete or biased in some way, it can lead to errors in my responses or cause me to generate inappropriate or misleading answers. What follows is the transcript of an interview I did with ChatGPT. I did not change a single word.

Q. Are you dangerous?
A. As an artificial intelligence language model, I am not inherently dangerous. I do not have physical capabilities, and I do not have the ability to cause harm or make decisions on my own. My responses are generated based on the input I receive, and my behavior is determined by the programming and algorithms that were used to create me.

Q. It’s important to note that any technology, including AI [artificial intelligence], can be misused or manipulated by individuals with malicious intent. For example, if someone were to use me to spread misinformation or to manipulate others, that could be harmful. It’s important for users to be critical of the information they receive, and to use technology responsibly and ethically.

In general, my purpose is to assist and provide information, and I am designed to be safe and reliable. If you ever have any concerns or questions about my behavior, you can always contact my creators at OpenAI, who are committed to ensuring that I am used in a responsible and beneficial way.

Bob has been writing about technology for over three decades. He can be contacted at techtalk@bobdel.com.
Kenai Peninsula senior centers welcome travelers
Post-pandemic travel rises in state’s most popular destination

By DIMITRA LAVRAKAS
Senior Voice Travel Correspondent

Gone are so many of the historic Alaska roadhouses that provided travelers with a meal and sometimes lodging, but senior centers across the Kenai have stepped in.

The Seward Highway to Kenai’s communities is lined with breathtaking scenery from bore tides, mountains and a side trip to Portage and its glaciers. (A word about Turnagain: Do not get out of your car and try to walk on the sucking mud or you will become the center of a rescue situation.)

And once on the Kenai you have dining options.

The Kenai opens its arms
“We’re open to anyone, and they can bring guests, like people visiting from out of town,” said Kenai Senior Center Administrative Assistant Red Piersee.

Lunch is at noon and costs $7. People are not required to be members.

The address is 361 Senior Court, Kenai. Open Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 907-283-4156.

At the Ninilchik Senior Center, Administrative Assistant Tandy Wallace said the hot lunch is at noon.

“We absolutely welcome anyone in the public, as well as guests,” she said.

The suggested donation is $8 for anyone of any age.

Address is 66265 Aspen Avenue, Ninilchik. Open Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call 907-262-2322.

At the Soldotna Senior Center, they serve lunch at noon and for visitors 55 and older, cost is $12, and for members, $7. (Membership cost is $20.)

The address is 197 West Park, Soldotna. Open Monday-Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call 907-262-2322.

In Anchor Point, the senior center welcomes everyone regardless of age or membership to a full service breakfast. For the menu go to their Facebook page or call 907-235-7786.

Thursday night dinners, 5 to 6:30 p.m., are $14 for dine in or take out for visitors, but call ahead to make a reservation, 907-235-7786. Address: 72750 Milo Fritz, Anchor Point. Center hours are Monday–Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Fridays, 9 a.m. to noon.

The Homer Senior Center offers lunches from noon to 1:30 p.m. in its Silvers Lining Café that include salad, soup, an entrée, dessert and beverages for a suggested donation of for $7 for those over 60, $15 for ages 12–59, and $5 for under 12.

“If they want to donate more than that it would be wonderful,” said Bonnie McDermott, who oversees membership and meal reservations. “All they have to do is fill out a short form so we can get them into our database.”

Reservations are highly encouraged, she said, for the kitchen to get an idea of how many to prepare for.

“We won’t turn anyone away,” she said. The address is 3935 Svedlund Street, Homer. Hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call 907-234-7655.

Surging senior population and expense curtail meals
Executive Director Dana Paperman said the Seward Senior Center could no longer provide meals to those other than local seniors, because of escalating food costs and the increasing number of seniors. It is now focused on providing meals to those who live in Seward and Moose Pass.

“For years, we served more and more Alaskans than ever before,” Paperman said.
Military
continued from page 3

is education. Many times people will need to brush up on their education, and they try and find ways to utilize either their GI Bill or veterans readies and employment. And I have a fourth one: Over the last couple of years, we have seen more dependent indennty compensation claims than we have seen over any other period of time that I’ve been in the office. If the veteran passes away from a VA disability, then that spouse is eligible for Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) payments from the VA.

For more information, call 907-334-0874, or 1-888-268-3682. Website: https://www.alaska.military.gov/home/. Email: alaska.veterans@alaska.gov

AARP
continued from page 3

Nurse (RN) license reciprocity with the majority of other states, allowing Alaska to put nurses to work faster in hospitals, nursing homes and clinics statewide.

Alaska’s local nursing program has capacity for just 324 graduates each year – a far cry from filling the 1,500 nurse openings annually. This demand is expected to grow to more than 5,000 by 2030 as our population and healthcare workforce ages. Maintaining a qualified and robust workforce is the single biggest healthcare challenge in Alaska, with nursing topping the list. And, we have already upped our restrictions on patient care due to workforce crisis. Alaska nurses overwhelmingly support the NLC with 92% of the responding nurses stating they are in favor of joining the NLC, including 87% of nurses who are members of a labor union.

Home- and community-based services and participant-directed care

More than 80 percent of adults express a desire to remain in their homes and communities as they age and prefer a home setting over a nursing home or other institutional setting. Medicaid Home- and Community-Based Services (HCBS) includes a wide range of services and supports provided at home, but that system is threatened by workforce crisis. Much of the work of HCBS is performed by direct care workers, including personal care aides, home health aides and direct support professionals. Alaska is experiencing severe workforce shortages in these areas, impacting the ability for people with disabilities and the elderly to receive home services and avoid costly institutional care.

Our state needs more home- and community-based direct care staff. AARP is partnering with the Statewide Independent Living Centers, SEIU care- givers union, Peer Power, and the Governor’s Council on Disabilities and Special Education to advocate for a Participant (or Self) Direct- ed Care program option, modeled after the VA’s successful Veteran Directed Care Program in Alaska.

Participant-Directed Care is a HCBS option in which the individual who receives services decides how, when and from whom their services will be delivered. Self-direction is a flexible alternative to “traditional” HCBS, in which a person receives services from a worker employed by a home care agency and the employee generally has less control over how his or her services are delivered. Participants in self-directed programs often choose to hire family, close friends, or neighbors as paid caregivers. Paid family caregiving through particip- ant-direction addresses multiple needs: the person who needs care can age in place among friends and family; the family caregiver can earn modest income for the difficult work he or she performs, which lessens the impact of the lost job hours for the caregiver and the larger economy; the homecare workforce is expanded; it prolongs the use of lower-cost HCBS while delaying or avoiding costly institutionalization.

Defined benefits for public employees

The State of Alaska has an average 17% vacancy rate across departments, with the Dept. of Health topping the list at over 20% vacancy. Public workers earn up to 14% less than private-sector workers. Providing a defined benefit pension would help to bridge that wage gap in the long-term and would make the state more attractive and competitive in employee recruitment and retention. Without such a program, state services are suffering and public access to benefits and services is threatened by short staffing.

In Alaska, where public employees do not participate in Social Security, the average pension benefit is between $2,133 and $3,176 per month, providing a retirement income floor to public retirees. As public employee retirement benefits have declined, Alaska is consistently short of the qualified workforce needed to create strong state services and public education systems. AARP is part of the State Pension Coalition organized by AFL-CIO to reinstate a pension option for all public employees.

To add your voice to our advocacy priorities and stay informed, visit https://action.aarp.org/security/aarp-2023-priorities-old-er-alaskans.

Marge Stoneking is the AARP Alaska Associate State Director for Advocacy.
Grandparents

continued from page 9

seek advice of legal counsel. Do not be afraid to ask professionals for help. Especially if there has been a divorce (or an estrangement, death of parents, or suspected neglect or abuse of grandchildren), clarify your legal rights and ensure access to your grandchildren. Most importantly, however, avoid putting the grandskids in the middle of any heated discussions or legal battles.

Wishing you the best in this new chapter. Realize everyone will have mixed emotions during the time of transition. Take it slow, create an environment of stability, ask for advice when you need it, and take care of your own health.

Resources
- VOA Alaska Kinship Care Services, https://voaak.org/services/family/kinship/
- Grandparents Raising Grandchildren, University of Wisconsin—Extension: https://fyi.extension.wisc.edu/grandparenting/
- National legal resource in support of grandfamilies within and outside the child welfare system: www.grandfamilies.org.

Karen Casanovas, PCC, CPC, CLIPP is a health, wellness and simplified living coach practicing in Anchorage. If you have questions write to her at info@karen-casanovas.com.

Public Notice

Legal

continued from page 18

Fargo isn’t in Minnesota, I haven’t figured that one out either. Also I don’t recommend watching the movie if you are sensitive to violence or profanity, as it has plenty of both. But it also has an interesting plot.

Jerry Lundegaard is a sleazy automobile dealer who has gotten himself into financial trouble. His father—-in-law is wealthy, but will not give any money to Jerry. So Jerry concocts a scheme in which he pays a couple of thugs to kidnap his own wife, hold her for ransom, and insist that Jerry himself must bring the ransom money. Jerry intends to get the money from his father—-in-law, who would do anything for his only daughter. His plan is to pay a little bit of that ransom money to the thugs, and then keep most of it for himself. Things go wrong as the father—-in-law insists on taking the ransom himself, ends up getting shot to death by one of the thugs, and then ultimately the thugs kill Jerry’s wife. A local police chief puts things together, and Jerry ends up going to prison.

One assumes that Jerry would not have a whole lot of money, since it is clear that his business was not doing well and he was in financial trouble. But his father—-in-law had money, and only one child, Jerry’s wife, who had only one child herself, a teenage son. This surviving teenager would presumably have the right to all of his grandfather’s assets. And if his parents did have any assets, the teenager would have a claim against them, because he could sue his father for having caused the death of his mother. Although I note that several other people got killed in the course of this movie, and most of those murders could be traced to Jerry’s kidnapping scheme, so again I expect this young man will have to split any of his parents’ money several ways.

But he would not have to share his grandfather’s money. That was, presumably, going to Jerry’s wife, but since she had already died it would pass through to the grandson. Claimants against Jerry’s estate wouldn’t have any right to that, since the grandfather was an innocent party.

So do you think maybe I should just try to enjoy the next movie, instead of thinking through the inheritance implications? Kenneth Kirk is an Anchorage estate planning lawyer. Nothing in this article should be taken as legal advice for a specific situation; for specific advice you should consult a professional who can take all the facts into account. And if you’re thinking of murdering someone for the inheritance, maybe a different kind of professional, like a psychologist. Or a pastor, maybe. Oh heck, just don’t do it, okay?

Karen Casanovas, PCC, CPC, CLIPP is a health, wellness and simplified living coach practicing in Anchorage. If you have questions write to her at info@karen-casanovas.com.

Senior News

Senior Voice Alaska.com

Crossword answers from page 16

FOAL LOCH PAVE APSE ARRAS ANOA ELF GEL TESTED ODessa SLY TRUE BETA MOP HAHN BHUTAN ADO ABEL PLO ART KIT LOL OUSELS ZEUS FOP LEST BEAM MIB ECHOES A CACIA ROW COB EARLY RISER VETO TREE DRATS ENOS SEWS SMEE TEES

Free Estate Planning Workshops

Discover “The 7 Threats to Your Estate Plan”

It’s all about family! Have you protected them?

If Crisis Strikes, You Risk:
- Losing control
- Additional stress on your family
- Loss of what you spent a lifetime building

Proper Planning Ensures You:
- Maintain control of assets for the sake of the family
- Give control to those you trust when you’re not able
- Remain home without stress on the family, should the need for long term care arise
- Keep family business private

IN-PERSON WORKSHOPS:
Anchorage Senior Activity Center
1300 E. 19th Avenue, Anchorage
May 18, June 21, July 11 | 9:30-11:30 a.m.
Wasilla Senior Center
1301 South Century Circle, Wasilla
May 22, June 12, July 24 | 9:30-11:30 a.m.
Palmer Senior Center
1132 S Chugach St., Palmer
May 15 | 9:30-11:30 a.m.

Free initial consultation for those who attend the workshop. Book now to protect your loved ones.

To reserve your space call (907) 334-9200 or go to www.akwillstrusts.com

Subscribe to Senior Voice
Call 276-1059 in Anchorage or 1-800-478-1059 toll-free statewide

Anchorage Senior Activity Center
“A Place For Everyone”

Purchase a gift membership for a friend during the month of March 2023 and receive $10 off the regular price (for new memberships only)

Twelve-Month Memberships are $75 per person or $150 for two at the same address. Lifetime memberships are also available for those 50 and older.

A membership to the Anchorage Senior Activity Center helps support programs and services like:
- Art & Craft Classes
- Library Services
- Social Events & Discussion Groups
- Technology Center

907.770.2000
AnchorageSeniorCenter.org

Free Estate Planning Workshops

Discover “The 7 Threats to Your Estate Plan”

It’s all about family! Have you protected them?

If Crisis Strikes, You Risk:
- Losing control
- Additional stress on your family
- Loss of what you spent a lifetime building

Proper Planning Ensures You:
- Maintain control of assets for the sake of the family
- Give control to those you trust when you’re not able
- Remain home without stress on the family, should the need for long term care arise
- Keep family business private

IN-PERSON WORKSHOPS:
Anchorage Senior Activity Center
1300 E. 19th Avenue, Anchorage
May 18, June 21, July 11 | 9:30-11:30 a.m.
Wasilla Senior Center
1301 South Century Circle, Wasilla
May 22, June 12, July 24 | 9:30-11:30 a.m.
Palmer Senior Center
1132 S Chugach St., Palmer
May 15 | 9:30-11:30 a.m.

Free initial consultation for those who attend the workshop. Book now to protect your loved ones.

To reserve your space call (907) 334-9200 or go to www.akwillstrusts.com

Senior News

Senior Voice Alaska.com

Crossword answers from page 16

FOAL LOCH PAVE APSE ARRAS ANOA ELF GEL TESTED ODessa SLY TRUE BETA MOP HAHN BHUTAN ADO ABEL PLO ART KIT LOL OUSELS ZEUS FOP LEST BEAM MIB ECHOES A CACIA ROW COB EARLY RISER VETO TREE DRATS ENOS SEWS SMEE TEES
Pickleball

continued from page 11

smaller player numbers in the area.

Our second email was a one-question survey that asked which type of membership the person would potentially sign up for:

- Single player, $35
- Family (two or more in same household), $55
- Half-year Single player, $30
- Half-year Family (two or more), $50

Again, we received 44 responses to our email blast, and from the collected responses we determined that membership fees would generate about $2,000 the first year. We may have put the cart before the horse, in that the cost of filing for corporation and charitable status, plus liability insurance and other financial necessities (like a website) would leave us very little cash on hand to do the things we had intended to do, like purchase equipment and sponsor tournaments. But, in for a penny, in for a pound!

We mirrored the Anchorage club’s benefits to some extent, but we had to back off the promise of new equipment, at least in the first year. We began to see the biggest advantage of forming a club was the status a formalized organization would give us for advocacy and future fundraising.

Here is the process used to create our non-profit club. Necessary disclaimer: I’m not a lawyer, your process may be different:

1. Obtain an Alaska business license ($50 a year);
2. Create your bylaws that include the following specifics. These should also go in your state Articles of Incorporation. You should research the specific language:
   a. limit the purpose to tax exempt purposes,
   b. net earnings not benefiting anyone,
   c. what happens to assets upon dissolution
3. File for your State of Alaska Articles of Incorporation ($50);
4. File an Initial Report with the Dept. of Corporations;
5. Obtain an Employee Identification Number (EIN) from the IRS (free);
6. File your IRS form 1023, the Federal 501(c)(3) tax exempt application ($275);
7. After you receive your approval from the IRS, register as an Alaska Charitable organization ($40) with the Alaska Dept. of Law.

That’s a bit of work, and it helps to have someone who has gone through the process shepherd you through the paperwork and online filing. Reach out to an established sports non-profit in your area to see if they can help.

This Chamber of Commerce website has a pretty good primer for creating a non-profit in Alaska: https://www.chamberofcommerce.org/nonprofit/alaska.

Homer is in the midst of planning a community recreation center, and we want to work with other non-profit sports groups to see this happen. As a club, now we can advocate with a single and loud voice the specific needs of our pickleball community to our city government. Is that worth $35 to $55 a year? We’ll know a few years down the road. Stay tuned.

Next column: Focusing on high-percentage shots.

---

Video assistance with Social Security questions

The Social Security Administration partners with locations throughout Alaska to offer a secure video service option. Video service is a convenient and no-cost way for people to talk directly to a Social Security employee through a secure computer link that includes two-way video and sound.

The video service locations are available at:

- In Nome, Norton Sound Health Corporation, located at 1000 Greg Kuschek Ave. Video service is available for walk-ins on a first come, first served basis, on the second and fourth Wednesdays, 9 a.m. to noon.
- Kenai Senior Center, 361 Kenai Senior Court. Video service is available for walk-ins on a first come, first served basis, on the first and third Wednesdays, 9 a.m. to noon.
- Kodiak Job Center, 211 Mission Road, Suite 103. Video service is available here for walk-ins on a first come, first served basis, on the second and fourth Tuesdays, 9 a.m. to noon.

The agency strongly encourages people, who can, to use its online services at www.sociaalsecurity.gov, call on the phone, or use the video service option when possible. These service options can save people a long trip to a busy office.

Most Social Security services are available to the public online and with a my Social Security account, or by telephone. And most Social Security services do not require the public to take time to visit an office. People may create their my Social Security account, a personalized online service, at website, socialsecurity.gov/myaccount.

---

SUBSCRIPTION

Just pick up the phone and call 276-1059 or toll free, 1-800-478-1059 to start your Senior Voice subscription today or subscribe at www.seniorvoicealaska.com.

The QR code below will take you to the subscription page.

Or complete and mail this form to:
Older Persons Action Group, Inc.
Publisher of the Senior Voice
3340 Arctic Blvd., #106
Anchorage AK 99503

Your subscription includes your OPAG membership.

---

DELUXE SENIORS COMPLEX

Tour our property and view our Quiet & Spotless Apartment Homes

- For Seniors 62+ years old.
- Income eligibility required.
- Security deposit $200. Non-refundable, refundable upon pre-approval.
- Pet deposit $50. Pet must be approved.
- Convenient to shopping.
- Washer/dryer in each unit.

---

Southside Apartments

9480 Morningside Loop 522-6393

---

SUBSCRIPTIONS

- New: One year - $30
- Renewal: One year - $30
- Out of State: One year - $35
- Other
- Low income (My donation: donations help fund the Older Persons Action Group programs and services, including the distribution of Senior Voice to low income seniors)

PAYMENTS

- Credit Card
- Visa
- MasterCard
- Other

PICKUP ADDRESS

- Name on card
- Address
- Exp
- Card#: Sec code
- Check #
- Amount

Make Checks Payable to Senior Voice

---

Senior News

---

Senior Voice, May 2023 | 23
Connecting Seniors, People with Disabilities and Caregivers with Long-Term Care Information & Services

• Identify your long-term support needs
• Explore your options for meeting those needs
• Connect you with the resources you choose for yourself or your loved one
• Follow Up to ensure your needs are met

Assisted Living

Some of us may eventually require some level of assistance, such as help getting ready for our day, help manage our medications, or prepare delicious meals. Timber Creek is designed to help you maintain your quality of life, so you can live as independently as possible. With its warm, family friendly atmosphere, Timber Creek promotes a fun and social environment while providing the attention of our dedicated staff, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week.

Let Us Help

Timber Creek offers a beautiful community atmosphere with programs designed to keep you or your loved one active and engaged. We work with each family member, loved one and their medical team to make the move to Timber Creek as smooth as possible.

Leisure Amenities

- Restaurant Style Dining
- Library
- Game Room
- Theater
- Computer Lounge with WiFi
- Salon
- Fitness Center
- Chapel
- Courtyards
- Bistro

At Timber Creek, we are intentional about building a culture where each of us feel comfortable, accepted and loved.

Reserve Your Assisted Living Home Today!

Call today for a tour.

1-877-625-2372

The State of Alaska, Division of Senior and Disabilities Services, administers the ADRC grant in partnership with the 6 regional sites. For more on the ADRC grant program, contact an ADRC Program Manager at 907-465-4798 or 1-800-478-9996.